Blessed Ones,

Glad that you made it to 2009... It's already three months old and yet 2008 seems like yesterday and yes our father gave us the opportunity and we must be obedient children who would rejoice and be glad in it throughout. Just want to remind us and encourage us to keep holding and moving on, it isn't over yet. Don't forget blessed one, "Your vision is your future". Abraham's story says it all, what you can see is what you can get.

God said "Write a vision, make it plain that he may run who sees it, though it may be delayed, it will yet speak and come to pass". Practice writing it down, the moment you think it, learn to write it down.

Dearest, do not negotiate your destiny for anything, no matter what, do not give up hope. Give everything away, but HOPE. Put your life in the hands of the One (GOD) who gave it to you and you won't miss it. (Sometimes or even most times it will be rough, but don't worry, it's because HE is taking away the rough edges, just like a carpenter fine-tuning his work.

My Father in the Lord, Pastor Andrew Adeleke will always say "A man who stops dreaming is dead". Let your dreams be bigger than you. It is time to stop day dreaming and start actualising your dreams. Look beyond where you are now, for you are more than that place and what you see. If no one encourages you, encourage yourself (David encouraged himself in the Lord). Speak good and positive things to yourself always.

Let your dreams be something that will be possible with God ONLY (Mat 19vs26). Something that will bring you peace, contentment and most of all please God. If your dream and vision can easily be achieved by you or a human being like yourself, then you have not started dreaming big. If that human being is cut short or taken away, what will you do? Depend only on God who never dies and has all the access to true success.

You cannot afford to fail, but you may have failed, please don't stay there, get back up and try again, you must realise that there are so many destinies tied to yours. Many People are waiting on you. Behold the face of God, seek Him, try your best to be diligent and let integrity be your watchword. Integrity preserved Job and the devil was disgraced.

Make God proud of you, like you would want to be of your children, do unto others what you want done to you. Don't keep malice or bitterness (FORGIVE AND FORGET). Yes you can forget because if you claim to be created in God's image, then you can FORGIVE AND FORGET. It is a choice you just have to make. Even if events bring it back to your memory once a while, chuck it back by force. If Jesus comes or you die in that state of mind, I can assure that He will not listen to your excuse of "Who is wrong or right". There is nothing that we have that we have not been given, always remember that what you have is not yours; God gave you for a reason, so do please ask Him?

As one of my HOD's will say... "The closer you get to God, the bigger He becomes"

God bless you, see you on the winning side (i.e. 2010 ) but if Jesus comes before then see you in heaven, hopefully your mansion will be next to mine. Study the word of God daily and most importantly tell someone else about the love of Christ, This is the major reason we are living. God wants us all back to Himself like it was in the very beginning.

Have a Fruitful 2009!

Your Sister
